Welcome to the 2023 Gardening Season!

The Board of Directors of River Valley Area Community Gardens (RVACG), wants you to have a great and successful gardening experience. Please notify a Board member if you have questions.

Expectations of Gardeners:

- Make a commitment to spend time at the Gardens. Seeds and plants will not take care of themselves.
- Be respectful of your fellow community gardeners. Each Gardener has a different gardening point of view. Discuss issues respectfully and bring any disputes or concerns to the Board of Directors where appropriate.
- Plant inside the boundaries of the plot. Allow 1 foot on each plot border to take into consideration the growth or spread of plants being planted so that they stay within the plot boundaries and the sides are easy to mow.
- Enter the plot of another gardener only when invited or permission is given.
- Manage weeds so that they do not flower and go to seed. The goal is to keep weeds under 6 inches with no seed heads.
- Keep the pathways free of hoses, tools, weeds, equipment, etc. so that they may be easily mowed and not pose a hindrance to walking.
- Email is the primary method of communication. Check it on a regular basis.
- Dogs are to be kept on a leash and out of the garden plots. All waste is to be picked up.

Responsibilities of the Board: The Board shall work with gardeners to ensure that they have a successful gardening season and provide educational opportunities to learn organic and sustainable gardening techniques and practices as well as the fundamentals of gardening..

Gardening resources and advice: Gardening is an-experiment and a learning experience that may yield mistakes and successes. Many of our Gardeners are seasoned veterans with lots of experience and knowledge. Doug Rouse, Nancy Hume, John Ingham and Emily Martorano are especially knowledgeable about vegetable gardening.

Registration: The registration process for all gardeners begins with completing the Application form and is complete when the plot rental fees are paid and the Gardeners Agreement is signed.

Garden Plots: All plots are rented for a gardening year. Each plot must be used for the cultivation of vegetables, flowers, fruit, or herbs for personal use only. Gardeners may not sell produce. Excess produce may be shared with area food pantries, friends, school kitchens, nursing homes, etc. or placed in the Veggie Kiosk on Westmor Street.

Organic Gardening Standards: The Garden practices organic gardening and sustainability techniques. Acceptable natural fertilizers include compost, composted manure, green manure, leaf mold, and worm castings.
